DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on September 16, 2005 has been entered.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 2,15,20, and 25 are objected to because of the following informalities: in the phrase "to from", the term "form" is misspelled. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. Claims 24-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Specifically, the claims are rejected for the following reasons:

Wherein the back panel is formed of a single sheet of material, it is unclear how the bottom section is capable of expanding more than the top section since no structure has been provided in the claim to allow for the difference in expansion of the back panel sections.

Dependent claims not specifically mentioned are rejected as depending from rejected base claims since they inherently contain the same deficiencies therein.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3727

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 1,3, and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Avery et al (US 6,823,867). A pleated pocket device 20 has a back panel 27 having at least one pleat 25 formed near a centerline of the back panel, a first section located above the apex of the pleat and a second section located below the apex of the pleat, the second section capable of expanding more than the first section and also in width and depth, and a front panel 26 connected to the back panel along the side edges to form a cavity adjacent the second section. It is noted claim 1 does not indicate the cavity is closed.

7. Claims 1 and 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wilson et al. (US 3,934,631). A pleated pocket device 10 has a back panel 27 formed from a single sheet of material having at least one pleat 36 formed near a centerline of the back panel, a first section located at the top of the device near the attachment to the hangar and a second section located near the middle of the back panel, the second section capable of expanding more than the first section and also in width and depth, and a front panel 26 connected to the back panel along the side edges to form a cavity adjacent the second section. It is noted claim 1 does not indicate the cavity is closed.

8. Claims 1-5,14-16,18-21, and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cappy et al. (US 5,743,460). A pleated pocket device having a back panel 4 formed from a single sheet of material has at least one pleat 1 formed near a centerline of the back panel, a first section located at a side edge of the device and a second section located near the middle of the back panel, the second section capable of expanding more than the first section and in also width and depth, a front panel 3 connected to the back panel along the side edges to form a cavity adjacent the second section, and a third second 5 adjacent the second section and forming a cavity bottom. The pleats can be seen in the figures to be formed near the centerline of the back panel.

9. Claims 1-5, 14-16, 18-21, and 23-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sica (US 4,079,871). A pleated pocket device 10 having a back panel 20 formed from a single sheet of material has at least one pleat 24 formed near a centerline of the back panel, a first section located at the top of the device and a second section located below the top of the back panel, the second section capable of expanding more than the first section and also in width and depth, a front panel 20' connected to the back panel along the side edges to form a cavity adjacent the second section, and a third second at the bottom of the pouch adjacent the second section and forming a cavity bottom. The centermost pleats can be seen in the figure 3 to be formed next the centerline of the back panel.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. Claims 17 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Capy.

Capy teaches a pleated pocket device as previously set forth wherein the first pleat and second pleat form a trapezoidal shape. Thus, Capy teaches the claimed pleated pocket device except for an inverted "V" shape formed by the first pleat and the second pleat.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to relocate the upper ends of the pleats closer together. Doing so is an obvious matter of design choice to form pleats of a different configuration, yet serving the same structural function and having the same basic structural feature.

Response to Arguments

11. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 and 14-27 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

12. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Various prior art closures teaching features similar to those disclosed and/or claimed are cited for their disclosures.

13. In order to reduce pendency and avoid potential delays, Group 3720 is encouraging FAXing of responses to Office Actions directly into the Group at (571) 273-8300. This practice may be used for filing papers not requiring a fee. It may also be used for filing papers which require a fee by applicants who authorize charges to a PTO deposit account. Please identify the examiner and art unit at the top of your cover sheet. Papers submitted via FAX into Group 3720 will be promptly forwarded to the examiner.

14. It is called to applicant's attention that if a communication is faxed before the reply time has expired, applicant may submit the reply with a "Certificate of Facsimile" which merely asserts that the reply is being faxed on a given date. So faxed, before the period for reply has expired, the reply may be considered timely. A suggested format for a certificate follows:

I hereby certify that this correspondence for Application Serial No. _____ is being facsimiled to The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office via fax number 571-273-8300 on the date shown below:
